Soon school will end for a few months for some, but for the graduates, OCE will become a cherished memory. Thinking back through the year, one can't help but say — "Gosh, we did have fun, didn't we?"

TO THE OCE STUDENTS AND FACULTY:

Each term, since the beginning of the college year 1955-56, has passed, it seems, even more quickly than the one before it and here we are, publishing the last Lamron for spring term. So many hours of work, and pages of print have passed before these tired old eyes since accepting the editor position at the beginning of the winter term.

Since that time, it has been the goal of the staff members to serve the students in the best capacity available. Many bumps were smoothed out, but a few lumps undoubtedly remain. We have not regretted the time we've spent serving the students, and sincerely hope that you have enjoyed the paper as much as we have enjoyed writing it for you.

With the beginning of the fall term, Tom Nash will step into the head position. We sincerely wish him the best of luck and success in his new job.

Lamron Editor

OCE Students Will Be Honored At 1956 Annual Awards Banquet

The annual Awards Assembly to be held Wednesday, May 23, in the OCE gym has again been incorporated into an evening in conjunction with a banquet to begin at 6 p.m. No charge will be made to dormitory students but off-campus students will be asked to pay a small fee for the dinner.

This semi-formal affair will be followed by a dance in Maple hall. The "Star-dusters" from Forest Grove will provide the dance music. Dormitory closing hours have been extended to 12:15 a.m.

Pat Holman, student body president, will act as general master of ceremonies for all the awards to be given to student leaders and recognition certificates which will be awarded to student chairmen and other OCE students who have been designated as worthy of merit. Installation of all new student body officers and publication editors will also be conducted at this time.

The awards assembly will be opened by Miss Holman who will read the "OCE Creed," written by Jeannette Spinney, second vice-president. Dr. R. E. Lieuallen will extend greetings and will be followed by Pat Holman who will start the "chain of awards."

First awards will be made to the present student body officers and publication editors. Jeannine Seeglitz, Lamron editor, will in turn present the "Outstanding Reporter" award to a Lamron staff member.

Presentation of the athletic awards will be made by the individual coaches. Dr. Robert Livingston will then present the "Outstanding Athlete" award to an OCE sportsman.

Recognition of the committee chairmen and class presidents is scheduled to follow the athletic awards. Special citations and awards will be made by representatives of the award sponsors. These special awards, the winners of which will remain secret until the presentation, are as follows: Eloise Buck memorial award, Phi Beta Kappa award, Delmer R. Dewey memorial award, Phi Delta Kappa award, Julia McCulloch Smith award, and Jacquelyn Stuart Graham memorial.

Recognition to "Kings" and "Queens," such as Homecoming Queen All-American, Collecto Sweetheart, etc., is also on the agenda.

The presentation of the "Outstanding Faculty Member" award will terminate the honors to be given and will be presented by Pat Holman.

Book Donation Week Slated

A request to make books available to universities in India and the Far East has been received in the deans' office. Students are asked to donate any books (regular college text books) that they will not be using any further. The books will be collected at the end of the school year and sent to the Far East College Association. At the present time, there is a great need for text books in these countries, particularly American text books. American colleges and universities are being asked to participate in this drive. The text books can make a real contribution toward better East-West understanding. Most of these countries are being supplied books from the communist sections of the world.

The association is particularly anxious to receive books which have been published within the last five years.

Collection boxes will be placed in each of the dormitories during the last week of school and all commuting and off-campus students are invited to donate books by placing them in boxes in Maple hall, in the deans' offices, or in the student post office. Faculty members are likewise encouraged to contribute books.

Wesley Group Purchases Land

The Wesley Foundation of the Methodist church has purchased land in Monmouth for the purpose of erecting a student Christian center, according to Rev Roy Agte, pastor of the Independence Methodist church and director of the Wesley Foundation program on the Oregon College of Education campus. The property was formerly owned by Mr and Mrs Darrel Stump and is located in the 100 block on south Whitman street. Plans are now being made to raise funds for the center which will cost approximately $30,000.

The tentative plans call for a fellowship hall which will seat 200 at a banquet, a modern kitchen, study rooms, an office, a student lounge and a small chapel seating approximately 40 people. The building will be of one story, frame construction. Lyle P. Bartholomew of Salem will be architect for the building.

Next Fall Will See First 'Dad's Week-end'

Plans for a dad's week-end at OCE were formulated during a meeting of the Dads' club officers which was held on the OCE campus last week.

According to Arthur Glogau, dean of men and adviser to the Dads' club, the meeting will be scheduled to coincide with a home football game. R. E. Lieuallen, college president, will speak at the dinner which will be held as part of the week-end's activities.

Officers of the OCE Dads' club are: Gottfried Krautscheid, Hillsboro, president; Vernon Amell, Beaverton, vice-president; Elmer Adams, Portland, secretary-treasurer; and Harold Shaper, Beaverton; Nolan Yoder, Hubbard; and Loren Gower, Aumsville, members-at-large.

Kitty Metcalf and Norm Berreman are among the many visitors who have viewed the handwriting display in the OCE art department. This display, which will be removed May 25, contains over a hundred exhibits of italic handwriting.

Italic Handwriting Is Exhibited Display Will Be Removed May 25

Just a matter of days are left for students to take the opportunity to visit the art department rooms 118 and 119 and see the large display of italic handwriting which has proven to be very delightful to view and interesting as well as educational to observe.

The exhibition is sponsored by the Society for Italic Handwriting, of which Mr. Kenneth Yost, assistant professor of art education at OCE, is a member. The display is composed of letters written by children from the ages of five years to 17 years and by adults engaged in all kinds of activities and who use italic handwriting in their daily lives. There are several before-and-after examples and even one examination paper written at high speed.

The display also includes an assortment of texts, charts, manuals and teaching materials for students and teachers of italic handwriting as well as some works belonging to the art staff of Oregon College of Education.

Recent tests conducted in London between italic writers and writers of conventional script have proved conclusively that it is impossible to "scribble" in italic, and in every test the italic writers wrote faster and more legibly than others participating.

Reports from students who have visited the exhibit have indicated that the display leaves "quite an impression on the observer and is a strong promoter for italic handwriting."

Yost Article Appears In OEA Magazine

Kenneth Yost, assistant professor of education at OCE, recently had an article published in "Oregon Education."

The article, entitled "Graphic Linguists in Your Own Classrooms," explained how international understanding can be aided by the exchange of classroom art with youth of other lands through national Red Cross societies. Mr. Yost stated that "these pupils are linguists when they draw because they are using a form of communication which is free of the many difficulties and limitations which torment verbal communication. There is no sentence structure to a sketch!"

Poll Outcome: Earlier Classes, Ten-Period Day

The student welfare committee met in the faculty lounge on Thursday, May 11, to discuss the problem of better utilization of available classroom facilities.

On a poll taken from the students, the following results were obtained:

1. (93)—classes begin 7:45 a.m., five minutes between classes with a 10-period day.
2. (82)—Add more 3:00 and 4:00 classes, possibly 7 a.m. and noon classes, along with more effective use of Tuesday and Thursday classes.
3. (20)—just more Tuesday and Thursday classes.
4. (2)—three hour classes held not only MWF, but Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday as well.
5. (2)—addition of more evening classes.

After much discussion and suggesting, with advice from several faculty members, the following schedule was worked out and will be followed next year:

1. An improvement of Tuesday and Thursday schedules.
2. Classes will run later in the day — 3-5.
3. Noon hour classes will be held.

There will be no Saturday classes, no reduced time between classes and no earlier classes.

Seventeen Students Are Delegates To Mock Democratic Convention

Many of the deep dark secrets behind the national political conventions came to light at the Willamette university Mock Democratic convention held May 11 and 12 in Salem. The following 17 delegates from OCE went to the convention representing the central states of Missouri — Loren Scott, state delegate chairman, Gene Rosaschi, Jack Williamson, Jack Graves, L. Scott, Keith Jensen, Irene Jensen; Iowa — Ervin Smith, chairman, Gordon Herman, Stuart Springer, Joe Hooven; Nebraska — Keith Richards, chairman, John Brentlinger, Ted Henry; Kansas — Pete Trott, chairman, Bob Richards, Dewey Newton.

Herman Presents Platform

On Friday evening, Scott and Smith met with other national committeemen to iron out the rules and procedures to be followed on Saturday. Gordon Herman presented the education platform at the domestic policy meeting and Bob Richards acted as the OCE committeeman at the foreign policy meeting. The OCE representative at the credentials meeting was John Brentlinger.

On Saturday morning and afternoon the convention hall was packed with 258 delegates representing the 48 states and the territories. The outstanding event of the day session was the walkout of the Dixiecrats when they refused to accept the civil rights plank that was being presented. They were back in full strength at the evening session, however. OCE's education platform plank, written by Gordon Herman, was adopted with only minor changes.

Presidential nominating began at 7:30 Saturday evening with the usual favorite sons and the two favorites Stevenson and Kefauver. Loren Scott (Missouri) nominated Stuart Symington and hoped that in the event of a North-South split the Missouri senator would be acceptable to the Southern delegates. In the fourth ballot the Southern states began a slow shift to Symington, dropping their favorite Senator Lyndon Johnson in an effort to stop the Stevenson support. This move was too late, for at the end of the fourth ballot a stampede to Stevenson occurred and gave him the required number of votes for nomination as president.

SPORTS OF SORTS

by RUSS BAGLIEN

Nearly every school, senior high or college level, has one or several boosters in the community who are on hand for just about all the athletic events the school offers, both at home and away. OCE has one of these rare gents in the personage of Dick Taylor, proprietor of Taylor's Sundries in Monmouth.

WAS ONCE AN ATHLETE

Taylor is no newcomer to sports at OCE. He played varsity football, basketball and baseball here in pre-WW-II days. So his interest in athletics is a natural instinct, probably, and being a graduate of the "old school" it isn't odd that he's an ardent booster of OCE athletic teams. Dick not only attends OCE functions, however, he frequently serves as an official at track meets as well.

Unfortunately, Taylor couldn't afford the time away from his business to attend the Oregon Collegiate Conference spring play-offs at LaGrande last week-end. We are sure that he would have been in the stands if it had been at all possible for him.

Too often, guys like Dick Taylor get very little attention for their ardent backing of a college athletic program. We merely mention his support to assure him that the student body, in general, and the athletes, in particular, appreciate his loyal support. We only wish the city of Monmouth had a thousand more Dick Taylors. If it did, we'd have to enlarge our seating facilities in all sports.

LANE IS AT IT AGAIN IN ST. LOUIS

Frank Lane, who has transferred his horse-trading talents from the Chicago White Sox to the St. Louis Cardinals this year, hasn't hurt his reputation any as general manager of the Cardinals. Baseball players are coming and going so often from St. Louis that Red Bird players now consider it SOP (standard operating procedure) to carry plane, train and bus schedules in their hip pocket. With Lane operating behind the scenes they never know who will be next on the trading block.

But, as was the case at Chicago, Lane has apparently made a pennant contender out of the Cards by his player shuffling. St. Loo has been in and out of first place all season and currently is perched in the second place section of the standings. If the Cards go all the way, we are sure Lane could get himself elected governor of Missouri with very little trouble. It's been quite a spell since a National League flag fluttered in the breeze above Sportsman's park (or is it Busch stadium now?) and in "show me" country only first place is good enough.

LUCKY TO HAVE LIEUALLEN AT THE HELM

We need only to point to the sad mess at the University of Washington to demonstrate how important it is for a college president to be concerned with the athletic program and policies of his school. College prexys at Washington, Auburn, Ohio State and other schools who have been censured (and fined, in some cases) by their respective conferences and the NCAA, apparently weren't interested enough, or were blind to the facts, to take the bull by the horns and straighten out their house before someone else had to come in and do it for them.

We make the point to insure the student body and alumni of OCE that athletics will always be kept in its proper perspective at OCE as long as Dr. Roy E. Lieuallen is president of our institution. He is keenly aware of our entire athletic program and supports it wholeheartedly. And he has an excellent staff in the athletic department to run the program efficiently.

We at OCE can be proud of having athletic teams that win more than their share of games, without having to pay our athletes fabulous sums of money to demonstrate their abilities. The athletes, themselves should be the proudest. They put in long hours of hard work to keep OCE on the sports pages of Oregon's daily newspapers. The public relations job they are doing for the school is tremendously important to the growth and development of this school.

ATTEND THE AWARDS BANQUET WEDNESDAY

The student body of OCE will have an opportunity to honor these fine athletes and their coaches Wednesday night in the gym when the annual OCE Awards Banquet is held. We earnestly hope that people will have to be turned away Wednesday night for lack of room. We've got some people to be proud of, non-athletes, too, and we ought to exhibit our pride in these individuals Wednesday night.

Diamond Men Win Third Place; Trackmen Gower and Kleinsmith Set Records in OCC Week-end Meet at Eastern Oregon College

The OCC conference meet at LaGrande, last week-end, was the scene for a final round of spring sports for baseball, track, golf, and tennis.

— BASEBALL —

In the first round of play, the OCE diamond men, coached by Robert Livingston, took advantage of homers by Kelly Hoy and Barry Adams, and whistled to a 10-1 victory over Eastern Oregon. The Wolves scored three runs in the second, four in the third and three in the fifth. Six Mountaineer errors aided the locals.

Saturday's four-game day saw Portland State squeeze out Oregon Tech, 2-1, to win the Oregon Collegiate Conference baseball tournament. In the consolation final OCE snatched third place by whipping Southern Oregon, 11-3. Earlier in the day Portland State entered the final round by a 7-3 win over OCE and SOCE defeated Eastern Oregon 8-2.

— TRACK —

Oregon College of Education's track team, coached by Ken Cumiskey, was the nearest rival of the OCC crown-winning Eastern Oregon team. The OCE Wolves were led by a 30 1/3 point margin as the Mounties chalked up 66 1/3 points to OCE's 36 1/6.

OCE's Larry Gower and Bud Kleinsmith posted new conference track records. Gower recorded a new time of 2:02.6 in the 880, and Kleinsmith topped the field in the discus with a toss of 130 feet, nine inches. Other records set in the meet were by Harmon: 100, :9.9; broad jump, 22 feet 1/2 inch; West, high hurdles, :15.6; Lowell Kolbaba, EOCE, javelin, 188 feet, 10 inches; and Bill Hollingsworth, high jump, six feet 2 1/4 inches.

OCE posted wins in the following events: 100—John Carpenter, third and Phil O'Neil, fourth; 440—Clark Lund, third; 880—Larry Gower, first and Stan Kenyon, third; mile—Berreman, fourth; discus—Bud Kleinsmith, first and Paul Benner, fourth; javelin—Ervin Garrison, fourth; pole vault—Undine Urban, first and Clark Lund, tied for second; high jump—Tuttle and Lund tied for fourth; broad jump—Carpenter, third; and two mile—Cece Miller, first.

— GOLF —

The Portland State Viks won their sixth straight OCC golf championship Saturday afternoon. The Viking foursome topped the three-team field with 308 points. OCE was second with 386 and SOCE was last with 396.

— TENNIS —

Southern Oregon College of Education won the OCC tennis title Saturday. The Red Raiders won both the singles and doubles crown, as well as the conference diadem.
